Overview

- ☐ Aims
- ☐ Learning outcomes
- ☐ Teaching schedule
- ☐ Assessment
- ☐ Tools
- ☐ References

- This module provides students with an introduction to the MEVN stack. This is one of the modern free open-source JavaScript based stacks used to build single page, multi-page as well as complex dynamic web applications.
- The stack consists of MongoDB, ExpressJS, VueJS and NodeJS. Students will gain an introduction to these technologies while developing a CRUD web application.

Learning outcomes

- Develop a CRUD web application using the JavaScript based MEVN stack.
- Discuss issues surrounding Internet and Intranet technologies, such as browser dependency, accessibility, legal and security concerns.
- Critically analyse and evaluate some of the key differences between SQL and NoSQL databases.
